CLIMATE:-

The Gwalior climate can be termed as extremes, both in summer and winter. The summers are usually very hot and the winters very cold in Gwalior. The rains in Gwalior are however, restricted only to the monsoon months. The northwestern wind blows, predominantly, over the city of Gwalior and the wind speed generally ranges from 8 Km. par hour in summer and 2 km Per hour in winter time. This makes the month from October to march, the best time to visit the city.

During the summer months, the climate of Gwalior is dominated by the scorching heat and the humidity level is also on the rise. From the month of April to the month of June Gwalior experiences summer months with temperatures soaring to a high of 45-47 degree centigrade. The Climate of Gwalior is very humid, especially at this time of the year. The mean summer temperature in Gwalior is, however, 33⁰ centigrade.

In the winter season, the climate of Gwalior steps down to a chilling temperature of as low as 1-2 degree centigrade. The mean maximum temperature in the winter months is 18.5⁰ C in Gwalior.

Owing to the Gwalior geography, the city falls in the rain shadow zone of India. As a result, it receives an average of only 700 mm per annum almost half of what the other places of the state receives an average. The monsoon starts usually from the middle of June and continues till the middle of September.

LOCATION:-

Gwalior location:- In the state of Madhya Pradesh, is at the geographical coordinates of 26.22⁰ North latitude and 78.18⁰ east longitude situated 197 meters above sea level, Gwalior is 121 km from Agra and 321 km from the national capital of new Delhi.

The city of Gwalior covers a geographical area of 4565.00 sq km and is situated by the banks of Chambal river it also serves as the administrative headquarter of the district of Gwalior and Gwalior division.

The land space of Gwalior is dominated by the Gwalior Fort. Situated on a rock outcrop. The historical city of Gwalior is completely land locked old Gwalior lies to the eastern side of the fort. Lashkar embraces the southern side while morar lies to the east of the fort. All these regions together form the present city of Gwalior. Morar is the cantonment area whereas the new city of Gwalior has developed in the lashkar region.

The strategic location of Gwalior has made it an army cantonment area. The major air base of Maharajpura came up in Gwalior, due to its convenient and safe location.

HISTORY OF GWALIOR:-

Gwalior's history is traced back to a legend in 8th century AD when a chief tain known as suraj sen was struck by a deadly disease and cured by a hermit-saint Gwalipa. As a gratitude for that incidence, he founded this city by his name. the new city of Gwalior become existence over the centuries the cradle of great dynasties ruled the city Gwalior. With different dynasties, the city gained new dimensions form the warrior kings, poets, musicians, and saints who contributed to making it renowned throughout the country. The city is also the setting for the memorials of freedom fighters such as Tatyra Tope and the indomitable Rani of Jhansi.

PLACES OF INTREST:-

The Fort:- Standing on a steep mass of sandstone, Gwalior fort dominates the city and is its most significant monument. It has been the scene of momentous events imprisonment, battles and Jauhars. A steep road winds upwards to the fort, flanked by statues of the Jain Tirthankaras carved into the rock face. The magnificent outer walls of the fort still stand, two miles in length and 35 feet high, bearing witness to its reputation for being one of the most invincible forts of India. This imposing structure inspired Emperor Babur to describe it is” the pearl amongst the fortresses of Hind.

Gujari Mahal:-

Within the fort are some marvels of medieval architecture. The 15th century Gujari Mahal is a monument to the love of Raja Mansingh Tomar for his intrepid Gujar Queen, Mrignayani. The outer structure of gujari mahal has survived in an almost total state of preservation the interior has been converted into Archaeological museum housing rare antiquities, some of them dating back to the 1st century A.D. Even though many of these have defaced by the iconoclastic Mughals, their perfection of from has survived the ravages of time particularly worth seeing is the statue of shalbhanjika from Gyraspur, the tree goddess, the epitome of perfection in miniature. The statue is kept in the custody of the museum’s curator and can be seen on request. Built between 1486 and 1517 by Raja Mansingh the tiles that once adorned its exterior have not survived, but at the entrance of these still remain within the palace rooms stand bare, stripped of their former glory, testifying to the passing of the centuries vast chambers with fine stone screens were once the music halls, and behind these screens, the royal ladies would learn music from the great masters of the day. Below circular dungeons housed the state prisoners of the mughals. Emperor Aurangzeb had his brother murad imprisoned, and later executed here. Close by is Jauhar pond, where in the Rajput tradition, the Rani's committed mass sati after their consorts had been defeated in battle At man mandir palace, a poignant ambience of those days of chivalry and heroism still lingers in the silent chambers. A superbly mounted son-et-Lumiere here brings it all alive every evening.

Gurudwara Data Bandhi Chhod:-

Built in the memory of guru Hargovind sahib, the 6th Sikh Guru who was imprisoned here by Emperor Jahangir for over two years. It is located on the Gwalior fort.

Gopachal Parvat:-

Situated on the mountain Area at slopes of Gwalior fort carries unique statue of jain Tirthankars, the largest Idol of Bhagwan Parshwanath on Lotus is the largest statue (in single stone piece) in the world being 47 feet high and 30 feet in width 26 Jain statues in a series give a beautiful and attractive picturesque. Built between 1398 to 1536 by Tomar kings-these Jain Tirthankars statues are a species of Architecture and a Old Indian heritage and culture.
